

Info on TADS’ Annual SOS Training

Since our 21 year old son, Jeffrey, took his own life in December 2009, we have worked tirelessly to try to prevent this tragedy from happening to other young people. Toward that end, we have founded Teenage Anxiety and Depression Solutions (TADS) whose mission is to address the issue of mental illness by raising awareness, providing education, and enabling access to care.

The centerpiece of our education efforts is our annual training for educators in SOS Signs of Suicide Prevention Program, which includes separate curricula for middle schools and high schools. SOS has been developed by Screening for Mental Health (SMH) and Deb & Steve have been certified by SMH in the SOS program and will be your trainers.

The SOS Program focuses on prevention through education by using a simple and easy-to-remember acronym, ACT® (Acknowledge, Care, Tell). Students are taught the steps to take if they encounter a situation that requires help from a trusted adult. Through the program, students are taught that suicide is not a normal response to stress, but rather a preventable tragedy that often occurs as a result of untreated depression.

This will be the 11th year that TADS will be making this training possible, and in that time over 600 people have been trained from all across the state. We’ve heard from school districts that have implemented the curriculum and were then able to discover some students who were in need of mental health services, students who were “definitely under the radar,” i.e. would not have been identified without the SOS program.

This event is a train-the-trainer class, and we are inviting up to four individuals from your district to join us, although we are willing to entertain requests for more attendees from your district. We extend our enthusiastic invitation to your school district and hope that you will be able to attend. Please let us know if you would like more information about this training.
